LA Treasury to host unclaimed money webinar for businesses

Free online event set Sept. 1

BATON ROUGE, LA – The Louisiana Department of Treasury will host a free online seminar to assist businesses with unclaimed money law compliance and reporting requirements. The 2022 Unclaimed Property Holder Webinar will take place online September 1 from 10-11:30 a.m.

“We want Louisiana’s businesses to know how to get unclaimed holdings to our Unclaimed Property division so our staff can do what they do best – get money to its rightful owners!” said State Treasurer John M. Schroder.

He added that all businesses operating in state are required by law to report unclaimed property, however most businesses may not realize this fact.

“We want to get the word out and educate the business community on its responsibilities regarding abandoned accounts,” Schroder said.

Any companies paying wages, holding accounts for Louisiana residents, making payments to vendors, issuing refunds, etc. are urged to participate. Free registration can be found at <https://louisiana.findyourunclaimedproperty.com/>.

Presentations for compliance personnel will feature Louisiana's unclaimed property professionals partnering with nationally recognized unclaimed property specialists to provide the most current information and instruction on responsibilities and compliance. Reporting demonstrations, alternative reporting options and best practices in general ledger reporting are among the webinar's topics.
